Why this set

Agentic development environment competing with Cursor. Cursor’s credit/usage packaging and Oct 2026 Plus $20→$8 / Teams $40→$30 cuts are live competitive pricing dynamics.

Competitors below are public SaaS peers Pricewatch already monitors — chosen as a useful comparison set for this outreach draft, not a claim about your exact competitive set.

Live pricing pulls

Documented moves relevant to this set

Linear: Basic $8→$10, Business $14→$16; legacy Plus/Standard retiring

Live pricing extract on 2 Nov 2026 shows Basic at $10 and Business-tier signals at $16 — matching the late-2025 list-price uplift. Separately, Linear is migrating all workspaces off legacy Plus/Standard onto Basic/Business/Enterprise at the next renewal after 1 Feb 2026.

Impact: Medium–High for eng-tool buyers and anyone still on grandfathered Plus/Standard. Expect renewal sticker shock and feature-gap questions (SAML, triage, private teams).

OpenAI ChatGPT: Team → Business packaging; Pro stays premium individual

Through late Aug 2025, ChatGPT Team was repositioned toward a Business offering. Live page extract on 2 Nov 2026 lists Free / Plus / Pro / Business / Enterprise — Team as a named consumer plan is gone from the extract. Pro remains the high individual tier.

Impact: Medium for SMB AI buyers comparing seat SKUs; update “Team” references in decks to Business.

Cursor: Credit/usage packaging replaces simple flat Pro story

Cursor’s public pricing narrative moved from a simple Hobby/Pro/Business flat story toward Plus/Premium/Ultra-style usage tiers (live extract shows Plus ~$8 and higher Ultra-band signals). Teams/Enterprise remain for orgs. Competitors in AI coding assistants should watch credit burn messaging, not just sticker price.

Impact: Medium for developer-tool PMMs; usage caps now matter as much as seat price.
